Bombay Gazette.

EXTRAORDINARY,

Thursday, 9th January, 1817.

The Ariel Croizer, has arrived with dispatches from the Gulph. She brings the gratifying intelligence of Lord Exmouth having by force of arms reduced the Dey of Algiers to a perfect state of submission.

Lord Exmouth and Admiral Milne, were wounded. It is also said that a Captain of one of the Frigates was killed.

His Lordship was wounded on the Cheek and received a very severe contusion on one of his Legs. It is said the Ship, on which he was aboard, lost 180 men.

Admiral Milne was severely wounded as was, we fear, Captain Ekins of the Superbe. The Algerines fought desperately. The Dey exposed himself considerably, encouraging his troops.

There appears to have been a very violent tempest in England on the 31st of August, and on the 7th and 9th of September.

The King's bodily health was good: his mental malady however was the same.

The Duke of Kent had left England for the continent. He was at Francfort on the 16th of September. It is reported he was going to Studgard for the purpose of escorting the Queen of Wirtemberg to England.

Parliament was not about to be dissolved, if we are to believe the solemn assurances of the Courier to the contrary.

General Miranda (after having been incarcerated near four years) died lately in a Prison at Cadiz.

The Prince Regent had been alarmingly ill, but was so much recovered as to be able to leave town for Ragley, the seat of the Marquis of Hertford.

The Emperor of Austria was to be married to a German Princess on the 18th of November.

A very numerous meeting appears to have been held in Westminster on the 11th of September for the purpose of taking into consideration the distressed state of the Manufacturers &c. It was attended by Lord Cochrane and Sir Francis Burdett.

The Benson, Bensham, for India sailed from the Downs on the 2d August. The Lady Flora, Brown, the Midas, Bingham, and the Hebe, Thompson, all for Bengal, sailed from Plymouth on the 4th. The Lord Carthcart, Talbot, for Bengal was in the Downs windbound on the 9th following.

The two Portuguese Princesses were to embark at Rio Janeiro for Cadiz on the 26th of June. Lord Beresford it was also said would sail from thence at the same time for Lisbon.

The Prince Regent of Portugal is to be married in April to the Arch duchess Leopoldine, & is to reside at Lisbon as Viceroy.

It appears that some of the English Papers ridicule Mr. Wilberforce's conduct at the late celebrated meeting "parce qu' il a donnè 50. liv. St. avec un torrent de larmes."

General Maitland had arrived in London.

Mr. Brougham was at Milan on the 1st of September. It is thought he is gone abroad in order to have an interview with the Princess of Wales.

The intended sponse of the Emperor of Austria is the Princess Charlotte of Bavaria, formerly married to the Prince Royal of Wirtemberg. It is also said the Imperial Prince will espouse the Princess Elizabeth Augusta of Bavaria.

The Duke of Wellington was at Reischoffen on the 15th of September—on the 16th he proceeded to Colmar; from which place he was to take the rout of Verdun and Metz. He has been reviewing the troops stationed at or near those places.

MALTA GOVT. GAZETTE,

SEPTEMBER 8.

His Honor Major General Lavard, having yesterday Evening received dispatches from Algiers communicating the most successful and glorious result of the Expedition under Admiral Lord Exmouth, has directed that the gratifying particulars shall be instantly communicated to the public in an Extraordinary Gazette.

The British Flag, waving every where triumphant, has been once more unfurled in the cause of humanity, and it now blesses the sight of thousands, whom British intrepidity has rescued in a manner the most gallant and decisive from Slavery and Chains; and although nothing was wanting to encrease the lustre of the Arms of Great Britain, yet this Heroic achievement is of a character to add brightness to the brightest page of Her Military renown.

Copy of a dispatch from Rear Admiral Sir Charles Penrose, K. C. B. to his Honor the Lieutenant Governor.

"Ister, Algiers Bay, 30th August 1816.

"Sir,"

I have great pleasure in stating to you the most decisive and glorious result of the attack made on the City and Fleet of Algiers by the Squadron under the Command of Admiral Lord Exmouth, on the 27th instant.

"The Dey having refused to accede to the terms demanded on the part of Great Britain by Lord Exmouth, His Lordship with that consummate skill and decisive gallantry for which he is so conspicuous, placed the Squadron close to the Batteries, and the effect of one of the hottest fires ever known for eight hours was the entire destruction of all the Ships of the Dey, and nearly the demolition of the works of the Mole and City, with a heavy loss of Men."

"The Dey then perfectly sensible of his error in presuming to hesitate in obeying the Mandate of Great Britain, agreed to the following terms:"—

"First.—That His Highness, on the part of his Government shall sign the Declaration which has been already signed by the States of Tunis and Tripoli formally, and shall for ever renounce the practice of condemning Christian prisoners of war to Slavery."

"Secondly.—That His Highness shall restore unconditionally, and place immediately under Lord Exmouth's protection, without ransom, all Christian prisoners of War, now within the Kingdom of Algiers, whatever may be the Nation to which they respectively belong."

"Thirdly.—That His Highness shall restore immediately, and without any delay place on board His Majesty's Fleet all such sums of money as may have been paid to him by their Majesties the King of Sardinia, and the King of the Two Sicilies for the ransom of their subjects, in consequence of the Treaties of 3*rd* of April last, and that all preceding engagements for the payment of ransom for any of the Captives in his possession, shall from henceforth be considered null and void, and of no effect."

"Lastly.—He is to receive no more consular presents; and a most ample apology was made to the British Consul, and full payment promised of any Losses he may have sustained."

"I lose no time ingiving you this important information, and have the honor to be,—Sir—Your Most Obedient Humble Servant.

(Signed) C. V. Penrose.
Rear Admiral and Commander in Chief.

"To His Honor Major General Layard, Lieutenant Governor ecc. ecc. ecc. Malta."

His Honor the Leutenant Governor has also received official information, under date the 31st. that Lord Exmouth had also concluded a peace for the King of the Netherlands with the Dey of Algiers, on the same terms as those so gloriously stipulated for Great Britain.

EUROPE DEATH.
